

ROSE FIRST HEARS HE IS BLAMED BY ZELIG.

"May 14, Wednesday—Zelig indicted for carrying a revolver, and his bail fixed at $1000. Sam Paul informed Jack Rose that Zelig blamed him for his arrest. Jack Rose, Bridget Webber, Harry Vallon dined in the Beaux Arts Cafe, sending Sam Scheppe for 'Lefty Louie' and 'Whitney' Lewis, Zelig's chief henchmen. They wanted to convince them of their friendship for Zelig, and that they had no connection with his arrest. Webber asked them how much they needed additional to get Zelig out on bail, and he put up $250 as a convincer of his friendship for Zelig.

"June 2, Sunday—Zelig, 'Whitney' Lewis and 'Lefty Louie' mysteriously attacked in Chinatown. 'Lefty Louie' was shot in the foot. All three arrested by the police.

"June 3, Monday—Zelig shot by Charles Torti as he was leaving the Criminal Courts Building after he had been discharged in the Magistrate's Court for the Chinatown shooting. 'Whitney' Lewis and 'Lefty Louie' also discharged.

WENT TO TALK PEACE, NOT TO PLAN MURDER.

The same day Sam Scheppe and Jack Rose called on Zelig at the hospital and to see Lefty Louie in the Southern Boulevard flat. Zelig's men will seek to show that Scheppe and Rose came with offers of peace. Rose himself has testified that he was fearful for his life at the hands of the Zelig gangsters. The gunmen contend that the killing of Herman Rosenthal was never discussed as planned by Rose, but that Rose and his henchmen, Scheppe, discussed the Chinatown attack and Criminal Courts shooting, warmly contending they had nothing to do with it.

"June 12, Tuesday—Zelig released from the hospital and his bail for the carrying of concealed weapons increased from $1000 to $10,000.

"June 18, Thursday—Jack Rose visited Zelig at the Tomb. Although Zelig is dead, counsel for the gunmen contends that witnesses are at hand to prove that the subject discussed between the two men had nothing to do with Herman Rosenthal, as claimed by Rose. The visit was to arrange bail for Zelig and convince him that Rose had nothing to do with the arrest.

"June 23, Tuesday—Trial of Zelig set to take place before Judge Malone in General Sessions Court. No jury on hand, and the case was put over until the following day. It is with these very records of the General Sessions Court that the gunmen expect to prove Jack Rose a perjurer in his testimony during the Becker trial concerning what transpired between him and Zelig on the occasion of his visit to the Tomb.

"June 24, Wednesday—Policeman White taken ill, the case against Zelig put over until July 12.

July 2, Tuesday—Jack Zelig bailed out—Rose, Webber and Vallon contributing to his bond. They did this, counsel for the four gunmen will contend, because they feared for their own lives, and not because of any deal made to get rid of Rosenthal.

ROSE SAID ZELIG REFUSED TO AND IN KILLING.

"July 4, Friday—Rose gave Zelig $50 to get out of town. His own testimony was that Zelig refused to have anything to do with the killing of Rosenthal. Counsel for the accused gunmen will contend that the refusal of Zelig admitted, carries with it any possible connection of his henchmen with the crime. They would hardly take a job their chief had declined to touch.

"July 15, Tuesday—Herman Rosenthal murdered.

"Summary—Jack Rose never discussed plans for the killing of Rosenthal with Zelig or any of his men. Fear of the Zelig gangsters alone caused him to hunt them up and assure them anything to do with the killing of Rosenthal, and that he was friendly to them, in proof of which he and his friends helped to raise bail for Zelig.

The defense of the gangsters differs from the defense of Becker in that the former will fight only a part of Jack Rose's testimony. They will seek to show where they claim truth left off in the bald headed gambler's story and invention began. In the case of Becker his lawyers were submerged trying to prove Rose altogether a liar, when there was every indication that Rose and Becker did have intimate business relations. Becker's post-trial statements to the contrary.

The four gangsters pin their chief hope upon William Shapiro, chauffeur of the murder car. They are confident he will not identify them, and up to the present he has refused to do so. A complete denial of having met Rose, Webber and Scheppe after the murder and being paid $1,000 is another part of their defense, and they point to the fact that nowhere in the testimony of Rose, Webber or Vallon is given any account of the striking of an agreement for that sum of money prior to the death of Rosenthal.

PROMISE TO BRING IN NEW EYE WITNESSES.

By witnesses are promised whose testimony will be sufficiently strong to improve the identification of Mr. Whitman's corpse of waiter witnesses. An interesting sidelight is promised in evidence to show that Jack Rose and Bridget Webber did not join the Sam Paul Association until after the arrest of Zelig in May, and they did so because they feared violence from Zelig's friends on the lower East side.

The trials of "Gyp the Blood," "Lefty Louie," "Whitney" Lewis and "Doc Frank" are expected to be noteworthy for their expedition, whether or not the defendants take the stand. Jack Rose will be a witness and so will Vallon, Webber and Scheppe, but their testimony will be only a brief summary of the narrative they delivered at the Becker trial.

It will only be necessary to get before the jury the fact that the gunmen were hired to slay and that they did slay. The motive was purely mercenary, according to the State's theory. This will eliminate all the testimony bearing on the elaborate plot of the Strong Arm Squad was convicted of hatching. The defense will necessarily be as of brief a character.

Mr. Wahl, it is stated, will handle all four trials and present the same defense in each case. Separate pleas of talesmen will be drawn for each trial, but it is the plan of Justice Goff and Mr. Whitman to run them off in rapid succession, hold night sessions if necessary, and top off and pare down any dilatory method that the defense may adopt.

It is not thought likely that all four trials will take any longer than the trial of Lieut. Becker, and then come the cases of Shapiro, chauffeur of the murder car, and "Gyp the Blood," ex-king of the newsboys. It is not improbable that some sort of compromise may be reached in both of the latter cases.

BECKER COMES UP FOR SENTENCE TOMORROW.

Becker faces Justice Goff tomorrow to hear the formal statutory sentence of death read against him as punishment for the part he played in the assassination of Herman Rosenthal. His chief counsel, John F. McIntyre, will not be present to represent him. Attorney McIntyre has suffered a severe physical breakdown and has been compelled to leave the city for several days.

Before leaving town, McIntyre consulted with his associates, John W. Hart, Lajos Becker and George F. Whitehead, and it was decided to refrain their client from making any speech in court as he had proposed yesterday. Lieut. Becker and his associates told him he had been too glib, and that if he continued to discuss his case he would only do harm to his appeal.

What is it said that all of the counsel who appeared for Becker at his trial will continue to act for him in framing his appeal, Police Lieutenant John Becker, the condemned man's brother, said today it was likely that a new lawyer would be brought into the case. Lieut. John Becker mentioned the names of Martin W. Lattin and John B. Stansfield. No decision will be reached by Becker until after sentence has been passed.

The convicted slayer-by-proxy of the gambler-informer will have ten days in the Tombs to make up his mind before going to Sing Sing.

"Charles is undecided," said his brother, "as to who will represent him in his appeal for a new trial. Of course, Mr. Hart and Mr. McIntyre will remain in the case as his attorneys, but there is a strong likelihood that we will retain additional counsel to assist them. No definite offer has yet been made to Mr. Stansfield or any other lawyer."

John W. Hart also admitted today that it was planned to employ new counsel in the case but he would not say what lawyer had been approached or who was the most likely choice.

ADVISED BY HIS COUNSEL TO KEEP QUIET.

Obedying the behest of his counsel, Becker did not utter a word for publication today from his cell in the Tombs. He was advised that it was dangerous for a man in his position to talk; that what he might say could be used against him at his second trial. He was further advised that a reversal of the verdict. He was advised that complete silence was his best weapon while his appeal was being framed.

Versions and counter versions of why the former commander of the Strong Arm Squad did not take the stand were still going the rounds of gossip today. During the trial it was vehemently announced that he was eager to explain his relations with Jack Rose and detail his story of the infamous conspiracy against him. Now, however, it is said that he was even more reluctant to go upon the stand and face the Prosecutor's fire than his lawyers were to have him. Becker has not yet made any statements that conflicted with the declarations of his lawyers, but all agree now that the chief reason Becker did not testify was that he wanted to save his wife from being forced to reveal her dragged into the case when he was cross-examined as to his alleged graft bank accounts.

BECKER WILL FIND TEN WAITING FOR DEATH IN THE CHAIR.

Preparations are complete for the reception of Charles Becker into the death cell at Sing Sing prison. He will not be taken there for ten days, but Warden Kennedy announced today in an interview with The Evening World that everything was ready to receive him.

"Always for one more," said the Warden. There are ten waiting death now and seven waiting cello. Becker will be under guard night and day. A man will sit before the door of his cell. His wife will be allowed to visit him once a week and his counsel at any time during the day.

Although there are ten waiting for death, it is probable Becker will not have the experience of watching any of them go through "the little green door" for at least three months. They have all received a stay of execution on appeal.

In the same tier that Becker's cell will be located in are five murderers—all from Westchester County. The lower tier holds an equal number. By the Warden's calculation, there must be some one of them will be electrocuted. When the Court of Appeals affirms a sentence six weeks usually elapse before the prisoner is put to death. The appeals of several of the condemned are now pending, and a decision will be reached shortly. All have been in the death cell at least four months—some more than a year.

Their names and dates of entrance are: Donato Cardillo, June 10, 1912; John Carlin, March 29, 1912; Matteo Klinton, Feb. 24, 1912; Joseph Carlin, Feb. 5, 1912; William Lingely, Jan. 12, 1912; Francis W. Muehlstein, June 14, 1912; John Mulroney, April 26, 1912; Victorio Rinaldi, March 19, 1912; Joseph Roberts, Jan. 31, 1912; Lawrence Spohn, May 26, 1912.

ARREST-FIVE IN ALBANY ON VICE INDICTMENTS.

ALBANY, Oct. 28.—Of the twenty-five gamblers indicted by the special grand jury as a result of the investigation into the affairs of Albany City and County by a committee of the Senate, five have been arrested.

James W. McNamara, charged with having leased property for alleged immoral purposes, was arrested today before County Judge Addison and entered a plea of not guilty.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with being a common gambler. Corrine pleaded not guilty today.

McNamara is alleged to have been the owner of property at No. 49 E. 12th St., Albany, which was leased to the late John J. Corrine, a gambler, and who was arrested charged with